

Client Communication and Response Guidelines

1. Response Time Targets

All client communications, including emails, messages, and phone calls, must be responded to within twenty-four hours. VIP clients require response within four hours, and premium clients within eight hours.

2. Communication Channels

Communication may occur via phone, email, or text message. Sensitive information must only be shared through secure and verified channels to protect client privacy.

3. Communication Logging

All communication interactions must be logged promptly in the company system with details including date, type, and summary. This ensures accountability and adherence to service standards.

4. Escalation Procedures

Issues that are not resolved within forty-eight hours must be escalated to a supervisor for review and further action. Urgent matters should be flagged immediately.

5. Privacy and Confidentiality

Employees must not disclose client information without explicit consent. Confidential material must be handled in accordance with company privacy policies at all times.

6. Follow-Up Requirements

Follow-up communication should occur within five business days after resolution to confirm client satisfaction and address any further concerns.
